How's everybody doing? Deer season is finally over and the traps are out. Fur prices might not be what we would like but the few of us that are trapping are doing it because we enjoy it. I have heard some encouraging news lately that some critters are doing a little better. Mike Drummond has been doing very good and is putting the rest of us to shame. You go Mike! It's still a pleasure to have such a great game warden here on the shore. Steve Garvis most definitely has trapping blood running through his veins, next couple months are crazy busy with picking up fur for NAFA (if there is any to pick up). But I'll try and get off another report before the next month has come and gone. Try and sign up a friend, finish your trapping season with a big push and above all else, be safe and have fun.
